LABOR PEACE HOPES ARE GIVEN IMPETUS IN A. F. OF L.

Few A. F. of L. leaders believe that anything can be accomplished as long as John L. Lewis remains the guiding factor behind the CIO.
Lewis' promise in Atlantic City to resign as CIO president may have caused a tumultuous uproar at the CIO convention, but at the A. F. of L. meeting the reaction was one of obvious cynicism. Only if Lewis also steps down as president of the powerful United Mine Workers union will A. F. of L. men be convinced of the CIO chieftain's sincerity.
Regardless of proposals and suggestions, and regardless of from whom they emanate, the delegates to this convention, by and large, believe that Lewis must step out of the labor movement before peace can be attained.
Let's not kid ourselves. The things that are going to happen would happen anyway, no matter who won the election.

FIFTH COLUMN MAJOR THREAT, OBSTLER WARNS

U. S. Must Curb Fifth Columnists, Westminster Instructor Asserts

During an address in The Castle on Monday evening Gunther Obstler, a citizen of Czechoslovakia and currently assistant instructor in the modern language department at Westminster college, told New Castle Exchange club members that "America's biggest problem is checking Fifth Column activities."
In a clear-cut manner, the speaker sketched the background of the European conflict. He traced the outbreak to Fifth Columnists. Obstler pointed out that this treacherous organization laid the foundation for the overthrow of European countries.

Obstler asserted that the United States need not worry too much about invasion, provided Fifth Column activities are curbed. This hideous organization is this country's biggest threat, he declared.

He touched lightly on the number of recent explosions in the country and opined that "they couldn't have all been accidental." At the conclusion, Obstler answered quite a few questions regarding the European situation.

L. J. Lewis, ex-president of the group, introduced the speaker.

The event was in the form of a guest night. Some 10 guests were introduced. Charles Westfall, of Pittsburgh state president of Exchange clubs, spoke briefly. Lee Christy, who assumed the presidency recently, opened the meeting.

Next Monday's meeting, in The Castle at 5:45 o'clock, will be devoted to business.

One stretch of roadway which is very badly used, and which should be improved, is the section through the old Rosena Furnace grounds. The roadway is only ached, and the heavy traffic which passes over it wears deep ruts in the carways in a few days time.

At the dinner meeting held in the green room of the Y. W. C. A. Monday evening, members of the Business and Professional Woman's Club were honored in having as guest speaker, District Attorney John Lamoree, who gave a fine address on "Good Government."

President Miss Genevieve Riddle presented Miss Mabel Boland, chairman of the Public Affairs Committee, sponsors of the program.

Miss Nora Burke introduced District Attorney Lamoree, who drew the parallels in city, state and federal government with the three departments of executive, legislative and judiciary. Also, he described the duties of the most important municipal officers and made a plea for responsibility in accepting jury duty as well as for loyalty to the government regardless of partisanship.

Preceding, David Cramer delighted the assemblage with a trumpet solo "Ode To The Evening Star" by Richard Wagner, with Edwin Lewis, accompanist. Little three year old Sue Lockley sang a group of songs, with her mother, Mrs. Elroy Lockley at the piano.

In bringing the evening to a close, group singing was enjoyed with Miss Mary Harvard leading, and Miss Theodora Pollock, accompanist.

In the Balkin' Balkans the trouble still goes on between Italy and Greece—with Mussolini's boys suddenly finding the war is all Greek to them. The Fascists discovered it's easier to declare war than to win one. The Italians seemed to believe that all they had to do was to thump their chests a bit and put their jaws to make the enemy show the white flag. However, they're learning that the safest place to meet a Greek is in a restaurant, where the worst they could expect would be an attack of indigestion—and the only counter charge would be on the bill.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

NO PRIVATE PLAYROOM

A great many young mothers fret because they cannot have a separate playroom for the child from one to five. Perhaps some impractical child experts have been responsible for this foolish notion.

If such an expert were only to observe the toddler in the average home, he would discover that the little tyke will not, of his own accord, stay long at a time in his own playroom alone. Even when this youngster has playmates, he and they prefer to spend most of their time where the other members of the family are. The separate playroom, so far as the toddler's preferences go, is impractical, except as a place to store playthings.

The tot wants to wander about the house with his mother. He wants to see what she is doing, now and then imitating her. He wants to talk to her and have her talk to him, especially to answer his questions unendingly.

Fortunate the tot and his mother if he, as soon as he has begun to toddle, has learned the meaning of NO, has learned there are certain few things he must not do or have, but hundreds of others that he may do. Fortunate if his mother and father never weary of answering his questions, listening attentively to what he has to say, explaining things to him, taking the time and patience to show him how to be careful in the use of new things. The little child should have, of course, a place or corner of a room with low boxes and shelves in which to keep his playthings.

Older Child Needs Room
The child over five or six may profit greatly by having a separate playroom, even if it must serve also as a bedroom, where he can continue at building and creating things over periods of days at a stretch, with assurance that his things won't be disturbed. It's the boy or girl over eight or ten who needs a room of his own, especially the teen-age boy and girl.

For general health, children should have separate beds, even if only a very inexpensive cot. Children sleep better when alone.

When two children share the same bedroom they may keep each other awake at bedtime or waken each other too early in the morning but on the other hand they may profit from conversation. In case they cannot be disciplined effectively, let one go to sleep in an adult's room, to be carried back to the children's room when the adult retires.

Pleasant of Fresh Air
Even with some crowding, if there is ample fresh air, the children through wise management by their parents may gain something in character through making the necessary adaptation because of the necessity of "doubling up." Yet one cannot understand how best mental health, personality and character can develop with a family crowded into a few rooms, as so very often is the case. Some of us little realize the handicaps some children and their parents must endure from congested housing.

NEW YORK — British Consul General Geoffrey Haggard explains Britain's dilemma:

"Good intentions have led us down the place whether good intentions are ever said to lead—where we are now in this devastating war."

CHICAGO — Dr. Harry A. Mills, new labor board member, hopes for greater understanding between employer and employee:

"There are few problems which can't be solved if employer and employee will sit down together with the sincere desire to reach an understanding."

WASHINGTON — J. Edgar Hoover cautions against hysteria over imagined sabotage:
"Hysterical and wild statements charging sabotage in American industry do to American labor a gross injustice because the vast majority of our plants are manned by loyal members of loyal American trade unions."

BALTIMORE — Wendell L. Willkie endorses the Community Chest campaign:

"The Community Chest idea of providing for the unfortunate, the sick and the handicapped, represents a fine blending of individual charity with organized community spirit."

THE TEST
You cannot be a friend to all. However hard you try, You must despise all dealing small And hate the selfish lie.

Always along the paths you fare Your eyes will soon detect A few whose ways you cannot share And keep your self-respect.

A painful test will come to you Before the journey's end. When one you've known and liked will do What you should not befriend.

So scorn all things of shame and Be honest and be just; Hold fast to what you think is right And make what foes you must.

Sometimes Nature makes a mistake. The old girl puts all the bone in the head and none in the back.

HOW TO GET ALONG WITH PEOPLE

Prevent your tongue from skidding. Say less, think more. Keep the promises you make. Count ten before saying something disparaging about others. Be generous in your praise of work well done. Be genuinely interested in others. Be careful. Don't argue; keep an open mind. Respect the other fellow's feelings. Carry no grudges around with you. Forget about any credit due you. Continue your work.

SOMETHING WRONG
After listening to a minister speaking on the thought that man always reaps what he sows, the Neighbor voiced dissent.

Of course there are people who don't like to get bills at any time and there are others who want their bills promptly so they can pay them promptly.

"An odd case," remarked the health officer to his assistant, as the two examined a farm youngster. "Here is a lad who lives on a farm and obviously is suffering from lack of milk. My boy," he went on turning to the youngster, "How is it that you live on a farm and don't get enough milk?"

"We ain't got hardly enough to feed the dogs," replied the boy.

Good Taste

Maybe our bomb-sight is the best. Our foresight was as good as England's, and our hindsight is wonderfully accurate.

Army stories are coming back again with talk of expanding military forces very much in the air. The two recruits had been sent to the kitchen and ordered to peel potatoes. They were talking over what the sergeant had been calling them.

"What does that guy mean when he keeps calling us K. P. K. P.?" asked one recruit.

"You dumb bunny," shouted the other. "Anyone can see he means 'Keep Peeling'."

Question: I have just received an invitation to a "personal" shower for a bride. Just what is this and what should I give?—D. B.

Answer: It means that your gift should be something for the bride personally rather than something for her new home. Your gift might be anything in the nature of wearing apparel such as lingerie, stockings, gloves, perfume, jewelry, etc. However, the usual gift at such a shower is lingerie.

Question: When apples are served at table, how should they be eaten? Answer: They should be cut into quarters, peeled and eaten with the fingers.

Question: Is "mousse" the dessert pronounced "moos-say"? Answer: No. It is correctly pronounced "moose."

ALL THE DETAILS

The two girls hadn't seen each other for a long time and were chattering about old friends.

"Remember Whatchacallit's daughter?" asked one. "Well, she and Whosit's son—the fellow that runs the lumber yard near Whattit's drug store—got married the other day. Had you heard about it?"

"I had heard something," admitted the other girl. "But this is really the first time I had received the particulars on the case."

A Pittsburgh woman declares her husband left her in Atlantic City nine days after they were married. Maybe the bill at the hotel was due.

There's one consolation. If this becomes a dictatorship, there will be no further reason to preserve our rotten city machines.

Ponder Recent Action Of Japanese
Believe That War With China Lost
Nippon Claims Only Shift In Army

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Japan's abandonment of a considerable southern Chinese area which the Mikado's troops had previously occupied is a development in the Asiatic war of much interest to the state department's division of Far Eastern affairs. What does it mean? That the Japs are getting the worst of the fighting? That's what our Far Eastern experts are wondering as yet they're uncertain.

The departmental division of Near Eastern affairs is equally interested in the slow start Italy got off to in its campaign against Greece. The division's impression was that the Fascist invasion would be from the jump, a walkover.

Tokio's account is that Nippon merely is moving its forces in China to new positions where they can operate more handily. Another story is that they're being conveniently assembled for a descent upon Britain's strong base of Singapore.

The Chinese version however is that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek men actually have chased the enemy out of Kwangtung province and now are getting them on the run in adjoining province of Kwangtung.

Whenever you encounter the syllable "Shan" in a Chinese name you know that the place is west of somewhere or other. And "kung" means east of somewhere. For instance, Shansi province is west of a certain range of mountains in northern China. "Shan" means mountains. And Shantung province is east of the same range. But Kwangtung and Kwangtung provinces are away to the southward. "Shan" signifies north. "Nan" south and "king" capital. Thus Peking was China's northern capital. Nanking its southern one. I'm not fluent enough in Chinese to translate kwang and "si" and "tung" are as plain as print to me.

Japan Weakening
When a Chinaman wants to say "Get out," to an intruder, he employs the term "Chui." Its literal meaning is "scatter." Seemingly they're saying "Chui" to the Japs at present.

Maybe the islanders are truthful in their contention that they simply are making a few strategic rearrangements but a pretty strong alert.

Turkey May Be Tough
That holds as to Greece. But the Axis' next step will have to be into Turkey, on its way to Suez. And it's guessed that the Turk will prove to be a tougher mouthful than the Greek. There are many more of them, they're better trained soldiers, they're a little better armed, they're a longer range from Axis bases, they have a bit of water between them and their prospective would-be invaders, they're better situated to take advantage of such assistance as Britain may be able to afford them and Russia may be in their corner.

Anyway, as previous remarked, the state department's Near and Far Eastern divisions are watching alertly.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

You may have seen the picture of the great London merchant, Gordon Selfridge, gazing at the havoc bombs had wrought in his huge caravansary. Perhaps—and very likely, indeed—his thoughts went back thirty-two years ago when a bumptious young Yankee, or so the English considered him, had the temerity to open a department store right under their noses, and the colossal gail to advertise its wares in the newspapers.

Up to the coming of Selfridge's sheepskins didn't advertise nor did department stores exist in London. Selfridge spent half-a-million dollars in advertising before he opened his doors. He was quick to make friends with the common people. London shops had always employed floor-walkers who looked like earls to walk up and down and shoe people to the street if they weren't buying.

Selfridge invited one and all to drop in and stay as long as they liked, even if they didn't spend a sixpence. He installed a lounge, a library, an emergency hospital, a bank and a tea-garden. He made life very painful to the old-time rock-like English conservatism as they watched him make millions and marry his three daughters to a prince, a count and a viscount. Harry Gordon Selfridge came to Chicago, Illinois, he became the world's greatest and richest merchant.

The story of Selfridge is the story of an American lad who went to England and made good. The story I have to tell now is the story of an English lad who came to America made good and then threw it all away. It is the story of Samuel Insull who created one of the greatest business empires this country has ever known. Springing somewhere from the murky obscurity of the London East Side, he stood one day, with his grave, brown eyes, before Thomas A. Edison, in the great inventor's office in New York, and with Edison he got his start.

Ruthless as well as tireless, only one idea burned in his active brain—to attain riches, and the power over men that goes with riches. Finally came the day when the wait from Whitechapel had a town house in Chicago and an estate of four thousand acres at Forest Park. The day came when he stood ruddy, smiling and confident, as the great names of Chicago, the Potter Potters, the Marshall Fields, the Rockefeller McCormicks, and so on, flowed past him in the foyer of the Chicago Opera House, bowing to him in friendly gratitude, fashion for bringing into being this palace of the operatic art.

And then 1929—desperation, flight, disgrace, outlawry. So passed old and impoverished, this disillusioned man who had fought all his life for the things that do not really matter.

Hereabout, in the region of New York, the weather continued to be so radiantly sunny, so sprinkly, that it was really an effort of the imagination to realize that soon the snow will fly. Early November is, one thinks, the most delightful part of the year, with its cool nights for restful sleeping, and its keen, tangy days for vital living. Early November brings the flame of red maples, the scarlet sumach and the russet of the red oaks.

It is hard to find a sassafras hunch here is that they're getting dangerously close to the bottom of their resources and can't maintain their luck much longer.

Near eastern observers aren't so hopeful of a long continued Greek resistance against the Italians.

They give the Greeks credit for being formidable scrappers, and in that respect they don't rate the Italians very highly. Nevertheless the Greeks are so heavily outnumbered and so under-equipped that experts surmise they can't last long.

All the same, our departmental Near Eastern division expected the Fascists to drive right across the northern Hellenese border in single order and they failed to do it. In fact Rome itself had to admit as much. Its excuse is that its forces were delayed at the outset by bad weather and worse roads over the mountains. The theory here, though, is that they might have foreseen these handicaps and provided for discounting them.

The conclusion is that Signor Mussolini isn't a competent a blitz-krieger as Herr Hitler.

Still, it's predicted that, in the long run, Italy's superior weight will count. Besides, if it doesn't, the consensus that Herr Hitler will have to lend German aid to his Axis partner. The Germans, indeed, are known to have a poor opinion of Italy's military prowess and it's presumed that they must be chucking at Benito's initial discomfiture, but in their own interest they can't afford to have it continue indefinitely.

Red Cross Has Assisted With 2,030 Disasters

Many Small Disasters Occurred During Past Year, Figures Reveal

693 LIVES WERE LOST IN NATION

JOIN

In a striking summary of the effects of natural disasters in the United States over the period of almost sixty years of American Red Cross history, Joseph McPate, chairman of the disaster preparedness program of the Lawrence County Chapter has made a preview of the annual report which shows 2,030 catastrophes have occurred. No state has been immune. Since July, 1920, Red Cross disaster relief has been given in 2,032 of the nation's 3,070 counties.

During the year ending June 30, 1940, the incidence of minor disasters was high, but the loss of life and damage to property was not great, as reflected in the Red Cross relief figures. The organization gave relief at the scene of 102 disasters in the continental United States.

British War Relief Work Goes Forward

Work Here Is Considered Far Above Average Of Rest Of Country

Large quantities of knitted garments, surgical dressings, and used clothing were packed for shipment overseas by the various units of the British War Relief Society located throughout the country, a branch of which operates here.

The Lawrence county unit, which works under the Western Pennsylvania committee, has turned out some splendid work which is considered far above the average. Amalgamation of the Allied War Relief Society with the British War Relief Society will greatly increase the scope of the work being done and will make available additional raw materials.

A recent call for toys from the New York office for evacuees in Great Britain has brought a splendid response.

Mrs. Richard Thomas, although past 80 years of age, the oldest worker in the Lawrence county unit, has produced 75 pairs of socks and several sweaters. She was active in this work during the World War.

Anyone interested in this work may obtain wool and needles at the next meeting of the knitting group at the Congregational church on Reynolds street, Friday evening, November 22. The surgical dressing unit works in the Y. W. C. A. on Wednesday afternoons, where volunteer workers will be welcomed.

Ministerial Group Hears Dr. Wilson

Offerings Will Be Taken In Churches For Community Chest And Red Cross

Dr. Paul H. Wilson chose as his subject, "Surgery in the Past Fifty Years," when he spoke Monday morning before members of the New Castle Ministerial Association in the First Presbyterian church, corner of North Jefferson and Falls streets.

Dr. Wilson pictured surgery in 1880, compared to surgery in 1940, presenting his address in an interesting and instructive manner. He was introduced to the group by Dr. S. E. Irvine.

Rev. W. J. Holmes opened the meeting with devotions, after which committee reports were given by Dr. J. J. McIlvaine for the law and order group and by Dr. Grant E. Fisher for the program committee. A motion was passed suggesting that an offering be taken where advisable next Sunday and in the Thanksgiving services, to be divided between the community chest and the American Red Cross. Resolutions were adopted expressing the appreciation of the association to the Roman Catholic clergy for their cooperation in the recent election. The meeting adjourned, after a rising vote of thanks was extended the guest speaker, with prayer by Rev. Thomas B. Shearer.

On Monday, December 2, the association will meet again with Dr. William A. Wishart as speaker.

Sees Reading Need In High Schools

Educator Says Low Grades Are Due To Inability To Understand Text Books

(International News Service) STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 19.—Johnny's low grades in high school may be caused not by stupidity but by his inability to read the subjects he is supposed to study, according to A. Steri Artley, graduate assistant in the reading clinic at the Pennsylvania State College.

"A pupil's ability to learn a subject depends directly on how well he can read that subject. Learning history, explained Artley, requires an entirely different type. Consequently, high schools should teach reading."

SUGAR

It's my observation that the average mother today doesn't take enough care with her baby's diet, and I think that their most common fault is feeding the baby too much sugar. I can recall literally hundreds of cases within my practice in which I found mothers deliberately feeding their children sugar because it seemed to keep them quiet and contented. I know this experience is pretty general because many other doctors both in United States and Canada have told me they have also found this practice to be general.

Of course, sugar is a very necessary part of any baby's diet. By sugar, I mean to include syrups, honey and starches, for the latter, as you are probably aware, are changed into sugar within the body. Children normally get enough of these sweets in their daily menu. Yet it is quite a common thing to find a mother putting a pinch of sugar in the baby's drinking water so he will drink more. Some mothers also put extra sweetening in the baby's food so he will eat more readily.

These pinches of sugar and drops of syrup soon add up to an enormous total. Each by itself seems harmless enough, but the sugar bribes become a practice, it isn't long before the parents are wondering why their child has so much trouble with his stomach, or why he has developed a kidney condition, or why his teeth aren't so good. These upsets are very often traced to an excess of sugar.

The feeding of the Quintuplets proved to me how necessary it is to curb the amount of sugar small children get. Too much sugar in their diets and we were faced with an immediate upset stomach—or I should say stomach, because as a rule if one Quin gets sick, then all do.

When the Quins were very young, they had extremely delicate skins, so we used to bathe them in olive oil. In spite of this we found that their skins got rough and scaly. I was worried, because I couldn't imagine what was the matter. Then it occurred to me that they might be getting too much sugar. I told the nurses to cut down on whatever sweetening had been getting, and sure enough in a few days, their skins began to clear up. It took us a couple of weeks to solve this trouble and I tell it now in the hope that it will save some mother a similar experience.

It is easy for a mother to get in the habit of overfeeding sugar to a child. When a baby is crying it will stop if it gets a little sweetened water. So the mother gives sugar to it and it isn't very long before the baby learns that all it has to do is raise a howl and it will get some of this nice sweet water to drink. It doesn't know that it is bad for him, and so it calls for more.

If you have started the habit of feeding your child extra sugar, now would be a good time to break the habit before complications of some sort set in. If you have never fed the baby sugar, but are tempted to, don't do it. The child is much better off without it.

Democracy Needs Community Help, Rotarians Told

Representative Of National Association Of Manufacturers Is Heard On Monday

"Democracy can perish—even our American democracy—for reasons very closely related to those ideals which have made America great," New Castle Rotarians were warned yesterday by Dr. John Richelsen, representative of the National Association of Manufacturers and former personnel director of Vanadium Steel Corp.

"All we must do," he said, "is listen to the words voiced 2,000 years ago by Plato, the Greek philosopher and writer, who knew all there was to know about democracy. He declared then that 'excess of liberty destroys a democracy.'"

Dr. Richelsen, whose subject was "Ideals and Realities in American Life," said that imagination is a fine thing, it controlled. But day dreams he called a different thing, and he said they are closely related to nightmares.

"Nightmares, I would say," he continued, "are the wages of gastronomic iniquities. And, in the political realm, nightmares may very greatly result in too great a variety of baloney."

Here he spoke about "the billions of dollars we're spending" and quickly observed that sometimes, when ideals and realities are in conflict, results can be disastrous.

"If we can't have sane democracy, that which is lost is not just America but our freedom and human progress as well," the speaker asserted.

His message was a stirring plea to the club members, as "leaders of public opinion in your community," to help others understand the workings of democracy. He referred often to the plight of France.

Dr. Richelsen, who spoke yesterday morning at Senior high school, was introduced at the Rotary luncheon in The Castleton by Principal Frank L. Orth of the high school, a Rotarian. Presiding at the luncheon was James W. Moorehead, acting for President S. Huston Rhoads.

Director of the sewage disposal plant J. D. Alexander, Safety Director D. O. Davies and City Engineer Glenn R. Throop propose a trip this week to Alliance to study the disposal plant there, in view of requests from the state of Pennsylvania that certain changes be made to the New Castle sewage disposal plant.

House, owned by the city, at Superior and Allen streets, was offered for sale recently. Today two bids were received, one from Harry Fisher, who offered $300, and another from John B. Gallagher, who offered $500. Both bids stipulated the property must be free from encumbrance. The bids were referred to the city's legal bureau.

It will not be long until all affairs of the city are either decided at Harrisburg or Washington. City Engineer Glenn R. Throop stated in city hall today. He said that approval for practically all improvements and certain legislation must be had either from the state or national capital. He remarked that already today he had held telephonic communications with Harrisburg that would cost the city $3.

City Engineer Glenn R. Throop has sent to the bureau of public roads, at the state capital, plans of the city's proposed widening of State street hill, he announced.

Camp Rises At Indiantown Gap

Work Proceeding According To Schedule Major Kay Announces

COST IS PLACED AT SIX MILLIONS

(International News Service) INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa., Nov. 19.—Construction of the military camp at Indiantown Gap where approximately 25,000 National Guardsmen and draftees will be trained for national defense is proceeding according to schedule, Maj. William L. Kay, construction quartermaster, reported.

Working against the January 1 deadline, the federal government is building the camp at a cost in excess of $6,000,000. Work done previously at the base will raise the cost by several additional million dollars.

Indiantown Gap, formerly used as a training site by Pennsylvania national guardsmen, was leased to the war department by the state in line with the present policy of national preparedness.

Approximately 850 buildings, from barracks and mess halls to theatres and recreation rooms, are in the process of construction, authorities declared each barrack would house 65 men.

In an attempt to make the conscripts feel as much at home as possible, modern conveniences such as showers, lavatories and heating units are being installed into each of the 35 barracks. 308 of which will be utilized by the enlisted personnel. Built of wood, the barracks are reported sturdy enough to protect the men from the cold, wintry blasts prevalent along the Kittatinny mountains.

A hospital unit, composed of 56 one-story buildings, all steam heated, will adequately care for invalids of the peacetime army to be quartered at the Gap.

One bright spot in the otherwise drab prospect of camp life was that trainees will not be "bothered" with "housekeeping" because of a service command, whose workers will perform the odd jobs that would otherwise prevent the soldiers from devoting full time to training.

With construction work underway since October 1, Pennsylvania Motor Police will soon restrict traffic on the highways leading through the camp in order that workmen might finish their task by January 1.

Officials pointed out that every effort is being taken by the government to supply the necessities of life without the luxuries. The change from private employment to army life will be as gradual as possible, it was added.

While the organ accompanied Miss Ruth E. Drecher in the singing of "America the Beautiful", a color guard of four Boy Scouts brought the flag in. They were Edward Aiken, Don Graham, Donald Gurgio and Frank Zaccarelli of troop 37, of which N. J. McCluskey is scoutmaster. Marcus Feuchtwanger, president of Temple Israel, made formal acceptance of the flag, and then gave a brief review of its history.

Draft Evasion Charge Is Made

Pastor In Pittsburgh District Faces Charge By U. S. Attorney

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Nov. 19.—The Rev. Allen Clay Lambert, pastor of the United Lutheran church at Sinking Valley, on the outskirts of Altoona, was formally charged with draft evasion today by Acting United States Attorney George Mashank.

Rev. Lambert, it was learned here, will post bond before United States Commissioner Angelo A. Santella at Altoona and will be released on his own recognizance. Later, he will be given a hearing before the United States commissioner in Pittsburgh.

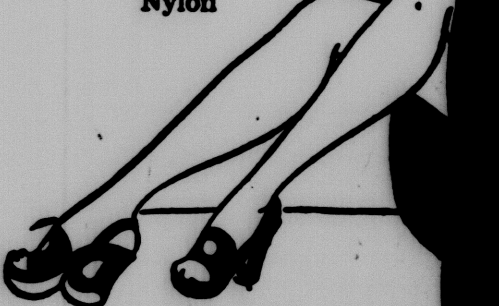

A similar complaint was issued against Anthony Mingoy, of North-East, Erie County. Rev. Lambert, 34-year-old father of three children, would have been exempted automatically from the draft because he was an ordained minister, but he refused to register anyhow. He said he acted on principle, as an American citizen and a Christian, because he felt the draft law to be a violation of the will of God and of the constitution.

Mingoy, Mashank said, was listed here as a conscientious objector. He "purposely evaded registration," Mashank said.

Mingoy will be served with a warrant by United States Marshal John E. Sloan and will be taken before United States Commissioner David E. Gifford of Erie, Mashank said.

CORNELL GIVES DARTMOUTH GAME

Fifth Down Protest Upheld
By Referee "Red" Friesell Of Pittsburgh,
Cornell Concedes

Score Becomes 3 To 0 And Snaps Winning Streak
Of Big Red Team Of Ithaca

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Football, long since recognized as possibly the most intricate of contact games for the spectators to follow and for the players to play, has reached the point this season where even the officials spent a part of their time stumbling around in rapt befuddlement. As a result, the various associations and committees which govern the game are going to do some lengthy haranguing before next fall in an effort to forestall another such campaign as this one.

The latest untoward incident, of course, was Dartmouth's 3 to 0 victory as of yesterday in the game which Cornell won by 7 to 3 on Saturday while the officials were looking the other way. Finally convinced that their team had scored its seven points with the aid of a fifth down, Cornell officials themselves reversed the outcome and gave the game to Dartmouth by the margin of the latter's field goal.

Officiating Bad
But that won't end the hangover of officiating which at times has been utterly unique this season. Some of the skulking haven't been publicized so much because outcome of the game was not vitally affected, but the point is this has been a memorable campaign for the gents in the white pants.

They have brought on themselves whatever chastisement they suffer and also, unwittingly, probably have paved the way to better officiating. There will be some safeguards found to prevent a mixup on downs and on yardage on penalties, the two features which have caused most of the commotion this year, leaving several coaches weary and a-fuming over the nonsense.

The Cornell-Dartmouth incident is without precedent, and is the less understandable because Red Friesell, of Pittsburgh, who pulled the skulking generally is recognized as one of the most competent officials in the east. In his explanation, Friesell admitted that he had become mixed up over the number of downs, and let Cornell go on to a fifth down and to a victory with a few seconds left to play.

Referee Admits Error
Friesell admitted his error and elaborated on what happened. After a Cornell first down on the six-yard line, he said, there were three line plays which gained five yards, then an extra time-out penalty which cost Cornell five yards, and then a forward pass into the end zone, which Dartmouth knocked down. That was four downs, and the ball should have gone over to Dartmouth on the 20-yard line, but instead he let Cornell run another play—the winner.

Only a couple of weeks ago a penalty in the Notre Dame-Navy game was counted off nine yards short of the stipulated 15 and some of the observers still are chattering about a ruling in the Army-Notre Dame game.

A solution to all this may be for the officials who select the field of officials to make sure that the latter can count. That seems to be the main thing wrong with them, a slight deficiency in mathematics when it comes to keeping up with the downs and stepping off yardage.

GENARO HOPES TO OUT-PUNCH HORNE

Ted Delarado, welterweight champion of West Virginia and Eastern Ohio amateur will fight Billy Garrett, McKeesport police tournament Golden Gloves champion, in the main bout here next Monday night it was announced today by the Jefferson A. C. This match tops off the Frankie Genaro vs Sonny Horne semi-final match in the arena.

In fact, the fight card to be shown next week may outshine that of one week ago last night when Genaro flattened Jimmie West then trounced to Youngstown to be knocked down not only once but twice by the hairy-chested Horne.

In addition to the foregoing 4-star amateur battles fans will see Eddie Bynum of McKeesport who knocked out Tommy Yarosz of Monaca, shortly before Tommy turned professional. Bynum, a middleweight, hopes to take the measure of Billy Reale, the fighter who loops punches to all portions of the body.

Two Twins To Box
On the same card will be twin brothers. They will fight different opponents. They are Gussie and Sammy Vargo of McKees Rocks. Gussie at 142, will box Chris Labor of Niles who fought Joey Yarosz here. Sammy at 135, will fight Melio Donelli of Niles who has not lost a fight here.

Russell Baxter, New Castle welterweight will fight Pete Misto in a return fight. Baxter shaded Misto in Grove City. Misto won recently in The Arena from Jack Gagoskey. In another fight Billy Jackson, stablemate of Delarado will box Al Kozak of McKees Rocks, a southpaw.

The fights in The Arena, one week ago last night were sensational for amateur bouts. According to plans the fights will all be over at 10 p. m. or shortly following. There were no delays last week between fights. This gives persons on the 11 p. m. turn a chance to be on time for work.

Illinois' largest score in any game was 87 to 3 against Illinois Wesleyan in 1912.

Gridders Await Thursday Battle

New Castle High Rings
Down Curtain On 1940
Card At Warren
Thursday

The New Castle High School 1940 football season will come to an official end Thursday afternoon at the Warren High stadium, where the annual New Castle-Warren grid tussle is slated to be played before a happy (Ohio) Thanksgiving Day crowd. The kickoff is announced for 2 o'clock.

The locals will leave New Castle at 11 o'clock instead of 11:30 o'clock as at first announced. The entire New Castle High squad will make the trip in two big buses. This is a reward for the third stringers who have worked all year and did not get to make the other out-of-town trips.

Signal Drills
Only light signal drilling is being indulged in this week. The heavy part of the conditioning was done last week. The postponement from last Saturday has given the locals a little more time to rest from the tough Campbell battle here on Friday, November 8.

The band is not making the Warren trip. It was announced. Tickets for the game are on sale here at the Sporting Goods store.

Students who would like to go to the Warren game Thursday may be excused by a written request of the parents, and by getting a ticket here in New Castle. Students who go to classes in the morning will not need excuses, as they will be finished in time to get to the game.

Forty-Two Grid Games Thursday

Arkansas At Fordham Is Top
Battle; Two Morning
Games Listed

Some 42 clashes, most of them involving minor opponents, match grid wits Thursday, the first of two Thanksgiving Days.

The day's top battle brings together Arkansas and Fordham at New York. The Kansas at Missouri scrap ranks second with Colorado at Denver following. Case at Western Reserve pits a pair of rivals in a morning game. John Carroll at Akron is also listed as a breakfast encounter.

Southern battles bring together a host of rivals. William & Mary will be entertained by Richmond; V. M. I. and V. P. I. exchange their annual blows; West Virginia Wesleyan tackles Marshall; Idaho faces Utah. Texas Tech plays at St. Louis while Ohio U. lines up against Xavier of Ohio. Miami and Cincinnati square off in their turkey day tilt. Ohio Wesleyan goes to Dayton and Ursinus bucks up against Franklin & Marshall. Nevada at College of the Pacific rates as one of the bigger clashes.

Other clashes involve "minor league" feuds.

House Floor Loop Is Being Planned

The House floor league at the "Y" will be reorganized this year and applications for playing in the league can be had by calling at the "Y" and seeing Bill Winter. Last year a fast four-team league was operated.

All members of the Senior department not playing in the church league are eligible for the league.

Church Managers To Meet Tonight

All managers of the various teams in the New Castle church league will meet at the "Y" tonight at 7:30 o'clock for the final meeting of the pre-league season.

All contracts are due to be handed in at the meeting.

BOWLING

ELDEST BOWLER

Pat Kearns is a fountain of bowling information. This is because he has been knocking down the maple pins for years and is now located at the McCoy alleys. One of the drops of info which he has permitted to emit from the fountain is the name of the eldest bowler in Lawrence county. Pat claims that honor must be given Fred Smith, who is 62 and who bowls with West Pittsburg in the City Ten Pin and Industrial Ten Pin loops.

According to Sir Patrick, Smith has been knocking down the maples since 1898. In 1909 he rolled with the Swatika etam of New Castle in the American Bowling congress. Kearns reports that the highest score Smith has made on the ten pin alleys is 288 for a single game. However, in the City Ten Pin play his average with West Pittsburg has been 179. He captains the team. His average in the Industrial Ten Pin league is 171.

Fred has his personal ball. And now that Pat has named the eldest player, who is the youngest league player?

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Hawaiians sports minded—From far off Honolulu, Hawaii Nick Capnetti, an ex-New Castle High athlete, pens an unusually interesting letter depicting sports as played at the cross roads of the Pacific. During a few leisure moments, the popular local young man, now serving for Uncle Sam, writes—

"Before coming to Hawaii, I pictured it as a place where a sailor, a soldier or a marine would see little if any sports played at all. But I was definitely wrong. There is unusual interest in sports, both on the part of natives and service men on duty in the islands."

"Football is not only played in high school and junior high, like in the United States, but it is also played in the grade schools. They play bare-footed football in the grade schools. I marvel at the way the natives kick a football barefooted. There is a dire need of football fields here."

"There are as many as six games played during one afternoon on one field. I saw a double header recently. I also witnessed the Hawaii U. and Honolulu U. game. Doyle Nave, Southern California's famous back, coaches Hawaii. Monk Meyer, famous Army back coaching a regi-

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Most causes which lead to deafness are preventable.

The ear is a most delicate piece of mechanism.

Ear infections are serious and often complicate other illnesses.

Foreign bodies in the outer ear should be removed carefully.

The external ear aids in collecting sound waves.

The auditory canal extends to the eardrum.

The drum membrane carries vibrations to the middle ear.

The middle ear lies between the drum membrane and internal ear.

The internal ear contains balance and hearing organs.

The eustachian tube connects with the nasopharynx.

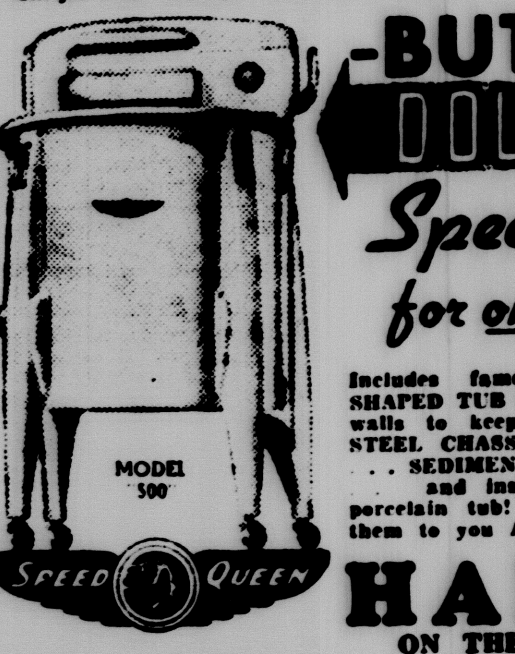

It is a very complicated, very delicate, very important.

Still persons will poke matches or hairpins into their ears.

First-Hour Selling Flurry Causes Slight Declines Among Leaders

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The stock market weakened today under a first-hour selling flurry. Leaders were down a point or more and a few slipped as much as 2.

All sections gave way after yesterday's dull and irregular market. Widest declines were shown by steels, coppers, chemicals and building shares.

U. S. Steel, ex-dividend 1, and Bethlehem each converted initial fractional gains into losses of more than a point. Other steels, as Crucible, Republic and Youngstown Sheet & Tube, also substituted minus signs for modest advances.

Union Pacific in rails and U. S. Gypsum in the building group fell 1/2 point before meeting support. Du Pont lost almost as much.

Declines of at least a point were incurred by Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville and Continental Can.

Utilities moved narrowly, most issues in the group holding at last night's closing levels.

Final Reports Of Armistice Day Celebration Made By Elmer Greenham

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 19.—Final reports of the Armistice Day celebration were made at the regular meeting of the J. Wilbur Randolph Post of the American Legion last evening and featuring the evening was the presentation of the football of the Ellwood-Beaver Falls game to the Legion as a memento of the observance.

R. J. Schill presented the ball which had been painted blue and white, orange and black and on the ball was written the score and the date, Elmer Greenham, general chairman, accepted the gift.

Delegates to the state round-up at Harrisburg during the past week-end gave reports. The Senior Rifle club announced plans for a shooting match to be held at the Stamm farm on Saturday afternoon. This will be the final chance to qualify in national competition with reports to be sent in by November 30.

The Post agreed to sponsor a marble tournament to be open to all boys and girls of the public school. Further plans will be announced.

Robert Sterling Due For Stardom

Son Of Mr. And Mrs. Walter
S. Hart Signed By M-G-M
For Starring Role

LOCAL BOY GOES UP LADDER FAST

Local friends of Bill Hart, Robert Sterling in the movie world, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Hart of Sylvan Heights, will be pleased to learn that young Hart is moving steadily up the ladder in the moving picture world, and is now ready to be starred in some of the big pictures to be produced by M-G-M.

In this regard, the following is said by Louella O. Parsons, motion picture editor of International News Service, in the Los Angeles Examiner, of November 10.

"Funny the way the breaks happen in Hollywood. Good looking Robert Sterling has been under contract to almost every studio in town without getting very far. He was among the legion tested for 'Golden Boy.' 20th Century Fox then gave him a chance in 'Yesterday's Heroes,' with nothing much happening. But out of the blue M-G-M announces this morning that they have signed Bob on a starring contract (yes, I mean starring) and his first will be 'Four Cents a Word,' a comedy to be produced by Bernie Fineman. The reason is that studio heads took a look at the test he made and went overboard. They think he's had enough experience without the usual grooming process—so here is Mons. Sterling practically a movie nobody yesterday and a star today."

Hart went to California only a few years ago and first did bit parts, but for the past year has been appearing as the lead in several bigger pictures. Now, according to the above information, he is slated for top pictures, which will be pleasing news to his many friends here. Hart is only 23 years of age and if he makes good in the big time, will have a real future ahead of him.

Naturalization court is on again in the Lawrence County court house and will be on most of this week.

Carl W. Starliper and John M. Dixon, examiners for the government are hearing applications. On Monday most of the cases heard were people who had been up before and held over for lack of sufficient knowledge. Some of them had been up two or three times and one had been up four times before. Monday the applicant was refused citizenship and will have to go through the usual channels again.

In number two court room Examiner Dixon had a number of American born women who had married aliens prior to September 22, 1928. The women are aliens although they can get their citizenship restored this week if they appear to take the oath and present birth and marriage certificates.

A new law recently passed makes it necessary for such women to go through the usual process of applying for citizenship papers and taking the examination.
